

LITTER CONTAINMENT SYSTEM

Abstract of The Disclosure

A cat litter box having an entrance way opening in the side surface establishing its configuration, with the entrance way opening extending upwardly from a predetermined point above its bottom surface and including inwardly facing edge surfaces providing a brushing function in physically contacting the fur and paws of a cat constrained to enter into and exit from the litter box via the opening.